Sweeping Tax Reforms Sought For Michigan

DETROIT — (AP) — A 50-man citizens committee has been handed the monumental job of drafting a program for sweeping reforms in the state tax structure. The Legislature's joint interim tax and revenue study committee at a meeting last night designated the members of three citizens' advisory groups for an overall committee to make the long-range study.

Bickerings Are Problem
Adequate funds will be provided for the tax problem survey, the legislators told the citizens group. Its report and recommendations are to be placed before the Legislature by next January. George R. Sidwell of Lansing is chairman of the citizens advisory group, which was created by the Legislature last year. Its subcommittees, the three groups which will conduct the tax study, are the Michigan tax survey advisory committee, the committee on inequities in taxation and the committee on grants-in-aid. Sidwell warned the Legislators that some permanent solution must be found to end present bickerings between the state's governmental units over tax monies.

Finances In Muddle
He said his group's preliminary study of financial grants to local communities showed a tax muddle so complex it would take months of expert study to find a solution.

Dean Investigates Left-Wing Dinner At Michigan Union

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Dean of students Eric H. Walter has ordered an investigation into a private dinner in a University of Michigan building which was addressed by a left-wing speaker previously denied a speaking permit by a faculty lecture committee.

The incident happened Thursday night in the Michigan Union building. The speaker was Arthur McPhail, executive secretary of the Michigan chapter of the Civil Rights Congress. Dean Walter said approximately 25 students who attended the dinner denied sponsorship of it, as did the Young Progressive Club, a student group which originally asked permission for McPhail to speak on the campus. Dean Walter said the University had been unable to locate a "Henry Gerard, of Detroit," who he added, he believed Michigan Union officials accepted the reservation in good faith.

Truman Swims To Get In Trim For Campaign

By ERNEST B. VACCARO
KEY WEST, Fla. — (AP) — President Truman settled down today at his favorite camp to limber up for the 1952 political championship fight.

He intends to stomp the country, virtually state by state, in this year's election campaigns, whether as a candidate for reelection, or the champion of the Democratic party's national and Congressional candidates.

Says Three Weeks
The President, who flew here from Washington yesterday, takes to the beach this morning for a swim in the Atlantic and a sunbath at the enlisted men's beach of this Naval submarine station.

He plans to stay here for three weeks, unless there should be a change for the worse in the condition of Mrs. David W. Wallace, Mrs. Truman's 89-year-old mother who is seriously ill at Blair House in Washington.

Truman's close associates think he definitely will announce his candidacy for re-election, or his intention to give up the Presidency, in an important political speech in Washington March 29, the day after his return to Washington.

The occasion will be the $100-a-plate Democratic Jefferson-Jackson dinner in the National Guard armory.

Meets With Cabinet
The President came here after a full-scale meeting with his cabinet at the White House yesterday.

New French Cabinet Formed To Support European Defenses

By CARL HARTMAN
PARIS — (AP) — Premier Antoine Pinay today formed a cabinet to give continued French support to Atlantic defenses and go ahead with plans for a European army including German troops.

Robert Schuman, who has been managing French foreign relations through repeated cabinet changes since July, 1948, was retained as foreign minister. He is noted as author of the plan to pool West Europe's coal and steel resources.

Rene Pleven, the ex-premier who first proposed the European Army, goes in as defense minister in place of Georges Bidault, Bidault fell ill while attending last month's meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council in Lisbon and said his health was too poor for him to stay in the government.

Even formation of the cabinet did not end the French government crisis. The ministers still have to be approved by the fractious national assembly, in a vote scheduled next Tuesday.

Pinay took on the finance ministry as well as the premiership giving himself the job of solving France's toughest post-war problems—a financial downfall that has France almost broke, and going further into the hole every day.

Premier Edgar Faure was tumbling from office eight days ago because the national assembly refused to hike present taxes by 15 per cent to halt the growing drain on the treasury and pay for defenses the assembly already had approved.

Faure had agreed at the NATO conference to expand French defense and proposed a record four billion dollar defense appropriation. The fall of his government left grave doubts whether France could carry out its defense plans.

Shift Of Allied Captives Denied By Communists

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
MUNSAN, Korea — (AP) — A U. N. truce negotiator today bluntly accused the Communists of secretly imprisoning captured Allied soldiers—including Americans—in Red China.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho called the charge a "fabrication" and a further attempt to delay the armistice negotiations.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby the U. N. negotiator, also accused the Reds of "threatening" the U. N. Command in a statement lambasting its treatment of war prisoners.

Negotiators Back Down

Simultaneously, another group of Communist negotiators backed down on an attempt to write into an armistice a ban on a possible naval blockade of the China coast.

"We have convincing evidence that you are holding prisoners in detention camps outside of Korea without reporting them to our side," Libby said. "This evidence has reached us from too many sources to be ignored or lightly dismissed."

The Communists always have insisted that all war prisoners are held in North Korea. Proof that United Nations prisoners are in Manchuria would weaken Red China's claim that it is not a belligerent in Korea. Chinese troops are called volunteers.

Camp at Harbin

Libby said a number of captured Communist soldiers have told of escorting U. N. prisoners to camps in China.

"One such individual described in detail a prisoner of war processing center in Harbin (deep in central Manchuria) to which he had helped escort captured United Nations personnel," Libby said.

An official U. N. spokesman said later the informant was a Chinese lieutenant who told of seeing more than 1,000 U. N. prisoners—Americans, South Koreans and others—at the Harbin processing camp.

Brig Gen. William P. Nuckolls, the spokesman, said the U. N. Command had no way of knowing whether these prisoners were among those whose names did not appear on the official Communist prisoner roster turned over to the Chinese.

Bail was set at $10,000 each.

US Plane Cracks Up On Jungfrau

BERN, Switzerland — (AP) — A twin-engine U. S. Air Force transport plane crashed into a blizzard-hidde glacier on the side of the famed Jungfrau peak at twilight yesterday with eight persons reported aboard.

The Swiss air force said there was little hope any occupant of the plane could survive both the crash and the bitter temperatures of a 60-mile-an-hour blizzard that raged about the peak.

An Army officer sighted the wreckage from the Jungfrau Hotel at Wengenalp. In the 24 hours covering the plane's flight and its discovery, nearly two feet of snow fell on the mountain. Much of the wreckage is covered, the officer reported after scanning the scene with binoculars.

Rescuers set out at once under the direction of Dr. Adolf Widmer of the Swiss federal office. They expected to make only slow progress through the mile-a-minute blizzards across deep snow, which is subject to dangerous avalanches.

Chinese Nationalists In Burma Smuggling Out Opium For Guns

By JACK MACBETH
NEAR THE BURMESE BORDER IN NORTHERN THAILAND — (AP) — Chinese Nationalist troops who have taken refuge in northeastern Burma are being supplied regularly through an opium-for-guns smuggling arrangement in Thailand.

This correspondent spent five days looking around the area extending from Chiang Mai 75 miles to the north and within 10 to 20 miles east of the Burmese border.

Poses As Merchant
Sources in most cases cannot be identified for publication, but they include teachers, missionaries, officials, senior Thai civil servants and police officials.

Although their information varied in detail it outlined a general pattern strongly supported by evidence which could be observed. This is how the barter arrangement works:

A Chinese posing as a merchant, but reported to be a Nationalist army colonel, maintains headquarters in Chiang Mai as the link between the Chinese embassy in Bangkok, Thailand's capital, and the Nationalists in Burma.

Illicit Trade Grows
His job is to funnel supplies received from Zangkong by air and rail, as well as locally-produced food and clothing, across the border. He has several assistants.

In exchange the Chinese Nationalists in Burma send raw opium to Chiang Mai for forwarding to Bangkok and onward. The opium is grown in Burma's Shan states and the Yunnan Province of China. It long has been an important though illicit industry in this part of the country.

Since 1949 it has been stimulated by the presence of about 10,000 ill-equipped and hungry Chinese Nationalist forces who were pushed over the Burma border by the Communists.

Yesterday a three-man Wayne University disciplinary committee, after a two-hour hearing, turned over to the council of deans the case of a 20-year-old suspended co-ed who had gigglingly testified at hearings of the House Un-American Activities Committee here last week.

The check of city housing tenants followed eviction action brought against two residents, William Allan and Gustave Jurist, who were named as Communists. Both were given 30-day notices to move. Allan has promised a court fight of the order.

Mark Herley, assistant secretary-director of the housing commission, said a list of more than 300 names of suspected Communists has been supplied to project managers for screening.

Plum Blossom Time Gets Snow In Tokyo

TOKYO — (AP)—This is supposed to be the month of plum blossoms, but Tokyo today was digging itself out from under nearly seven inches of snow. The unusual snowfall snarled traffic, caused accidents and brought on power failures. It was worse in some other places. The famous hot springs resort of Hakone, 75 miles south of Tokyo, reported 16 inches of snow.

Jets Bag Eight Migs In Korea

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR
SEOUL, Korea — (AP)—American sabre jets knocked eight Communist Mig-15s out of North Korean skies in the past week with no loss to themselves, the U. S. Fifth Air Force said today.

But the Air Force, in its weekly summary, said nine U. N. warplanes were lost during the period March 1-7. Red ground fire accounted for five, a mechanical difficulty caused one to crash, and three failed to return for unknown causes.

In air-to-air battles the swift sabre jets also probably destroyed another Mig and damaged eight.

Clouds obscured Red targets in North Korea Saturday. By noon only a few United Nations weather reconnaissance planes were aloft. Ground action was similarly light after a flurry of Communist probing attacks on the eastern front Friday.

Most of the probing attacks hit the U. S. First Marine division. The leathernecks threw them all back.

After the Reds withdrew they hurled a heavy barrage of mortar and artillery fire. The Marines replied with roaring rockets.

Congress Checks Pentagon Waste

By RUSSELL BRINES
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Congressional investigators planned today to turn from goods to people in a search for waste in the military services.

Chairman Hebert (D-La.) said his House Armed Services Subcommittee will investigate the 161,517 employees of Washington's defense headquarters to see if there is "waste in manpower."

But first the group will probe the activities of an estimated 500 Pentagon public relations officials — Hebert calls them "alibi artists" — to determine if they are more interested in "spreading propaganda than in giving information."

All this will begin in perhaps two weeks. Before then, the subcommittee will complete consideration of a bill which would require the military services to streamline their supply bookkeeping.

Hearings continue today on a bill to require consolidation of 15 service catalogs into a single federal listing of items which are on hand or might be purchased.

Scheduled witnesses were Col. William M. Miles of Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, and Col. Hugh H. Master of Air Force headquarters, Washington.

Hebert said his subcommittee is "concerned with waste in any form. Waste of manpower means waste of tax dollars."

He said the Armed Services have more "officers and civilians on duty in the Washington area now than at the height of World War II."

The Pentagon immediately supplied contradictory figures. It said 21,000 officers of all services now are stationed in the Washington area, including sections of nearby Maryland and Virginia. A total of 59,000 enlisted personnel and 91,517 civilians also are on duty in this area.

On April 30, 1945, the Pentagon said, the figures were: Officers, 37,016, enlisted personnel, 74,224 and civilians, 98,048.

Walleye Fishing Bill Up Monday

LANSING — (AP)—The Senate is scheduled to vote Monday night on a proposal to restrict commercial fishing for walleyes in the Big and Little Bays De Noc, famed sports fishing grounds.

The measure, introduced by Senator William A. Ellsworth (R-St. Ignace) is backed by the Walleye Protective Association. It survived debate Friday.

Ellsworth said the bill would permit the use only of pound nets held by 10 or more stakes in water shallower than 50 feet. All netting would be forbidden between April 15 and May 20. All netting would be forbidden between July 1 and Sept. 10 in the three trolling areas.

One would be from the upper tip of the Big Bay north of a line from Porcupine Point to Valentine Point.

One would be in the Little Bay between the North Shore and a line from Saunders Point to Squaw Point and thence to the mouth of the channel of the Gladstone Yacht harbor.

The third would include a strip of the Little Bay and Green Bay between the west shore and a line from Portage Point running a mile and a half south thence along the west shore a mile and a half to the Delta county line, Ellsworth said.

Roundup Of 23 Breaks Heart Of Nationwide Illegal Heroin Trade

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP)—Police worked swiftly today to round up 23 men and women named in an indictment that U. S. narcotics commissioner Harry J. Anslinger confidently predicted will "crack the heart" of the illegal heroin trade.

Narcotics agents said the indictment struck at a multi-million dollar conspiracy strung like a web from coast to coast.

It was returned by a federal grand jury yesterday afternoon and arrests began from San Francisco to New York.

Nine of those indicted had been arrested by early today.

Six of the 23 were already in jail on previous convictions or awaiting sentencing.

Worked In 9 States
These included Waxey Gordon, one-time Mr. Big of New York's prohibition days, now serving 25 years to life in Sing Sing prison for narcotics law violation.

Ernest Gentry, Narcotics Bureau chief for the seven western states, said Gordon (born Irving Wexler) bossed the ring.

Gentry said the ring distributed heroin in nine states, but the indictment covered only four distributing points: Portland, Ore., Reno, Nev.; Phoenix, Ariz.; and the San Francisco Bay area. He said the other states were New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Missouri and Minnesota.

The indictment grew from two years of investigation and took six and a half months to present to the federal grand jury here.

The investigation was spiced with the fiction-like adventures of a narcotics agent who wormed into the ring as a peddler and almost lost his life as he dug out information on the higher-ups.

The agent, Michael Picini, was to be "taken care of" by triggermen, fello wagents said, but pulled out in time.

Bail $10,000 Each

Gentry said Abe "The Trigger" Chapman was Pacific Coast distributor, with headquarters in San Francisco. Chapman, of San Mateo, Calif., is now serving 15 years in McNeil island prison for narcotics conspiracy.

The agent said Gordon was the supplier and got the heroin from Italian seamen.

Most of those indicted have long criminal records. Some are former gang members and several have been convicted on narcotics charges.

Bail was set at $10,000 each.

Eisenhower Given Edge Over Taft In New Hampshire Poll

By JACK BELL
CONCORD, N. H. — (AP)—Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio slugged his way through the rural precincts of New Hampshire today in a wind-up bid for endorsement of his Republican presidential aspirations.

It was all Taft in the campaigning and a fighting, aggressive Taft who was daring supporters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to "call a spade a spade" as the nation's first primary campaign came to a virtual close.

New Hampshire residents vote Tuesday on Presidential candidates and delegates to the national conventions.

Kefauver Hopeful

Beyond some television appearances and the presence in the state of Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn), who is challenging President Truman for the Democratic nomination, the invasion of New Hampshire's startled towns was about over.

The last-minute political dope sheets gave Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, an absent but available candidate, a slight edge over Taft in the GOP preferential (popularity) test on next Tuesday's ballot.

Most observers thought that Eisenhower's "big name" list of delegates would win most of the state's 14 votes to the Republican Presidential nominating convention in Chicago next July.

No Stassen Delegates

What would happen on the Democratic side was somewhat problematical. Truman supporters said they were confident they would roll up a substantial margin for the President in the popularity test and deliver all of the state's eight Democratic delegates to him. Kefauver had hopes of victory.

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota also is in the GOP preferential contest but has no delegate candidates entered. A slate of delegates has been entered for Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who says he isn't running, but his name is not in the popularity test.

Questions Fired At Ike

Appearing superbly confident of the outcome here after two days of teeth-jarring travel over the frost-burned New Hampshire's snow-beleaguered roads, Taft fired a series of questions at his chief opponent.

He asked if Eisenhower (1)

Hamrin Talks To Ministers

Rev. Reynold M. Hamrin, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, read a paper to the Delta County Ministerial Association at its meeting this week. Excerpts from the paper follow:

"There is an increasing tendency in our nation to disregard the first day of the week as a day of rest and worship."

"It is not a tendency that originated in our own day, but one that goes back almost a century in the history of our country."

"Under the Puritan regime in Colonial times the church enjoyed a virtual monopoly of the Sabbath. Church attendance was obligatory and laws protected the sanctity of the day."

"The fact that makes the question of disintegration of Sunday observance particularly relevant today is that there is a trend toward returning commercial enterprises to the old seven-day work week. Factories are discontinuing the practice of closing down production over the weekend, stores and shops are remaining open and places of amusement, filling stations and taverns continue full-time operation."

"Worthy of Observance?"

"Is this day, created by our heavenly Father, sanctified by our Savior, and preserved by the church, worth saving?"

"Some think we have outgrown it with our modern civilization, that it is something that belongs to the past and should be forgotten."

"Let us explore the issues involved and try to find the fallacies of disregarding the Lord's Day as a day of rest and worship."

"Economically, the law of competition decrees that the proprietor of a business meet the values offered by a competitor. In the retail field, this includes the convenience of being able to make sales any day of the week, including Sunday. In the industrial field this means the prompt delivery of merchandise which may mean that the factory must stay open on Sunday to deliver the goods on Monday."

Sunday Work Unprofitable

"In practice neither of these is of real value to either the consumer or the company. When retail stores are kept open on Sunday, there is no increase in total retail sales. It is simply a matter of spreading out the time of purchasing from six to seven days."

"Simple mathematics illustrates that it costs more to keep a store open seven days more for heating, for utilities and for wages. Actually, a consumer pays more in a large number of these stores because goods must be marked up to meet higher costs."

"In the industrial field, there is a sharp increase in the cost of labor necessary to produce the commodity. Double-time for Sunday work is a common practice. Actually, double-time increases costs more than the figures would indicate."

"There is a point reached after which a worker's efficiency in productivity diminishes. This was found in scientifically-controlled experiments to be around the 48-hours-per-week mark."

"Economically speaking, therefore, it does not pay to keep stores open or to operate factories on Sunday."

Threat To Family Life

"Sunday work also tends to break up families. It is one day which should be held sacred for the sake of the family, at least. Sunday is the only day this can work out on because of school time, shopping, etc."

"Besides, the Lord has given men physical bodies that can be maintained at a working pitch only so many hours without a breakdown of health. The body is made in such a way that it needs periodic rest and Sunday is the day appointed to it."

"Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work, but the seventh day is the sabbath of the Lord thy God, and in it thou shalt not do any work, is the way the commandment reads."

"Remember the Sabbath"

"Some think of the Sabbath as Saturday, which under the old law it was. But the calendar first day of the week was taken by the early church to celebrate our Lord's death and resurrection. This was the selected day of worship. Essentially, Sabbath-keeping is based on a principle—work six days and then rest one."

"The only command in the Decalogue which begins with 'Remember' is the one which enjoins 'Remember the Sabbath to keep it holy,' as though the Divine writer realized that there would be more danger of forgetting this than any of the others, and of yielding to the subtle temptations of caprice and convenience as an excuse for violating it."

"From a purely economic standpoint, the long-range view finds Sunday work unprofitable; from a human standpoint, health of body and mind dictates an observance of Sunday. Family life demands it. From a spiritual standpoint, the observance of Sunday as the Lord's day, as a day of worship, is an imperative necessity for man."

Jail Drunk Driver; No. 2 Charge Ready

After pleading guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants and failing to pay a fine of $50 and costs, Chester W. Siko, 42, Bark River Rt. 1, yesterday was sentenced by Justice Henry Ranguette to serve 30 days in jail. Siko's driving license was revoked.

The case dates back to Siko's arrest on Dec. 3, 1950, by Escanaba police. Placed under bond for his appearance in court, Siko left the city and forfeited the bond.

Later he returned and Thursday night was arrested near Bark River by Gladstone State Police and charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants. His second arrest resulted in his arraignment yesterday on the old charge.

Justice Ranguette said that a second warrant charging driving under the influence, second offense, is being prepared against Siko.

Nancy Petry and Marie Peterson. Lillian LaFave will furnish the music for assembly singing.

Briefly Told

Program For Kiwanis—An agricultural program is scheduled for the Escanaba Kiwanis club meeting Monday noon. Ray Knutson is the chairman in charge, and the main speaker will be Joseph Heirman, county agricultural agent.

Rotary Program—Roger Norden, Marquette, educational consultant attached to the U. P. regional office of the Michigan Department of Conservation, will speak to the Escanaba Rotary club at its meeting Monday noon at the Delta hotel.

Orpheus Rehearsal Monday — The special meeting of the Orpheus Chorus, scheduled for Sunday afternoon, has been postponed until Monday evening at 7. It will be held in the music room of Junior High School.

Order Payment — Wellington Lancour of Blackwell Ave., Gladstone, today was sentenced by Justice Henry Ranguette of Escanaba to pay restitution of $5 and court costs or serve 15 days in jail after Lancour pleaded guilty to leaving a Shell tourist cabin without paying his bill.

Masonic Funeral Rites—A special meeting of Delta Lodge No. 195, F. & A. M., will be held Monday, March 10, at 1 p. m. at the Masonic Temple and 2 p. m. at the Anderson Funeral Home, to pay respects to the late Hartley Bagley, member of Pine Lodge No. 188, F. & A. Farm Animals Killed In Fire

A barn and several farm animals were destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon on the Toivo Lampi farm several miles north of Rock.

The blaze, which started in the hay loft of the barn, annihilated a horse, a colt, three heifers, a bull and several chickens. A number of other animals were led out of the burning barn by Mrs. Lampi who was at home alone when the fire started at 3 p. m.

A hay wagon was also demolished in the blaze.

Members of the Rock volunteer fire department who were called to the fire were Richard Campbell, Eino Kivela, Clifford Carlson and Robert Weingartner.

There was no insurance on the building.

National Guard Promotes Six

The following promotions in the local National Guard unit were announced this week by the commanding officer of Company C of the 107th Engineers, Capt. Roy J. Johnson.

From private first class to corporal—James Benard, demolition man, Myron Dubord and Phillip LeGault, combat construction specialists.

From private to private first class—Larry Doucette, Ronald Olson and Dudley Lund.

Captain Johnson announced that these men successfully passed the evaluation and promotion board tests and now will be required to instruct other guardsmen in their specialty fields.

The local commander states that there are still a number of vacancies in the unit for which qualified young men may apply. The age limit is still 17 to 35 and anyone interested may call the armory, 1392.

PREPARE FOR SHIPPING—Lloyd Hulett, officer in charge of the U. S. Coast Guard light-house at Escanaba, spray paints a navigation buoy to prepare for the opening of shipping on Green Bay. Local Coast Guardsmen work on the buoys in winter storage on the Reiss dock. Hulett has requested Coast Guard headquarters to notify him several days ahead of the arrival of icebreakers so local fishermen can be informed. (Daily Press Photo)

Postpone Ice Breaking, Bay Fishermen Request

With ice still fast in Green bay and commercial fishermen at peak winter operation from Escanaba to Menominee, appeals to the Coast Guard are being made by fishermen to have ice breaking postponed as long as possible.

But shippers are pressing the Coast Guard for early opening of navigation and there has been unofficial word the cutter Mackinaw will come to Green bay about March 13.

If the Mackinaw does come it will mean the bay ice field will be broken and commercial fishermen must remove their nets or risk losing them.

Past Years' Experience
The fishermen do not want to delay the start of shipping but they do hope the Coast Guard will postpone ice breaking until it is necessary.

"Every spring it is the same story," said Roy Jensen, Escanaba fish dealer. "Cutters break the ice early, the fishermen are forced to stop operations, and then there is a long delay before the first boat comes through."

He said fishermen had checked with Chicago & North Western Railway ore dock officials and find they do not expect an ore boat to arrive here "for several weeks."

Last year it was 15 days between the time the Mackinaw broke ice here and the arrival of the first boat.

Fishing In Full Swing
In appeals directed to U. S. Coast Guard headquarters at Cleveland and to Michigan Senators and Congressman Charles E. Potter, the fishermen cite the economic loss to the area by the early disruption of commercial fishing.

Jensen said with the ice still fast and weather conditions favorable the fishing business along the shore from Escanaba to Menominee is in full swing.

Indicating the scope of operation, Jensen said approximately 60,000 pounds of smelt are being taken daily in the Escanaba-Menominee sections. Fishermen receive six cents per pound for smelt.

In addition there is the employment provided hundreds of persons in trucking, packing, handling, and shipping the fish.

Fishermen will not object if early ice breaking is followed by shipping, Jensen said. But unnecessarily early use of the Mackinaw will break up operations of a local industry as well as the ice.

Wounded Saved By Bone Banks

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Babies who didn't have a chance are giving some Korean war wounded another chance for a normal life.

The tiny bones of still-born or short-lived babies are being used — with parental permission — to help save the hands and feet of wounded men, Navy doctors told a reporter.

Small leg or arm bones—some of them only a few inches in length—have been found particularly useful in several cases where men had lost parts of bones between the fingers and wrist or between the toes and the ankle.

The infant bones are procured within 24 hours after still-born delivery or after an early death following delivery.

They are preserved until used by a special "freeze-dry" method perfected by scientists of the Naval medical school at Bethesda, Md., which is commanded by Captain J. L. Enyart.

The grafting operations were performed at the Naval hospital, commanded by Captain Bartholomew Hogan.

The Navy's "bone bank" for the most part has bones taken from adults, either after death or during a surgical operation. They are similarly preserved by the "freeze-dry" method.

But two of the Navy's scientists — Lts. Thomas C. Turner and Andrew L. Bassett—said that, for certain uses, the small size of infant bone make it particularly helpful as graft material.

Moreover, they added, baby bone is less dense than adult bone and thus is conducive to more rapid healing of the graft and subsequent development of the recipient's own bone. (Ultimately a grafted bone is entirely replaced by newly-grown bone.)

Both the baby and adult bones are kept in air-tight bottles at room temperature after first being subjected to the "freeze-dry" technique designed to assure preservation with virtually no deterioration due to internal chemical change.

Airport Lighting Installation Is Good Business For Escanaba

THE installation of lighting facilities at the Escanaba airport is an improvement that guarantees better commercial air service to this city and the surrounding area.

It means that commercial airlines can revise their schedules into and out of Escanaba if they desire since night landings will now be permitted. Under CAA regulations, the commercial lines were permitted to fly into Escanaba or out of this port only during daylight hours.

The lighting of the field is the latest improvement to the local airport and is a part of the project under which the north-south runway was extended to a length of 3800 feet to meet federal requirements. While the benefit to the community is primarily in the commercial aviation aspects, it is not the only benefit. Private airplanes also will be able to use the local port on a 24-hour basis rather than be restricted to daytime operation.

The City of Escanaba has spent many thousands of dollars in airport improvements over the years, all designed to provide proper facilities for a means of transportation and commerce that is growing with tremendous strides.

Good News For The Russians

AS recently as 1929, the money spent by the Federal government totaled less than two-thirds of the income of the people of the single state of California.

During the present fiscal year Federal spending will equal the incomes of all the inhabitants of this country who live west of the Mississippi, except for the residents of Louisiana, Arkansas and one-quarter of Missouri.

Even that doesn't end the sorry tax story. State and local governments dig deep into the public's pocket too. Their expenditures will equal the total income of the citizens of the rest of Missouri, plus those of Arkansas, Louisiana, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi, Alabama, and two-thirds of Georgia.

All in all, government spending will equal the entire income of people in states comprising eighty per cent of the land area of the nation.

This is a novel and dramatic way of picturing the incredible magnitude of government spending. The nation is being bled white by ever-expanding government—and by waste which has reached shocking proportions. This must be a happy spectacle to the Russians, whose greatest hope is that America will eventually collapse economically and carry the free world down with her.

BRIDGE FINANCING

(See Evening News)

The report given the Legislature by the Mackinac Bridge Authority was received with much interest by the senators and representatives. Chairman Prentiss M. Brown called on the consulting engineers to outline various phases of the feasibility of constructing a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac. Questions were asked and answered satisfactorily and in the minds of the great majority of people who have looked into the problem, there is conviction that the bridge is practical from an engineering standpoint.

The Authority followed the instructions of the Legislature and secured the best long span suspension bridge engineers in the country. It also selected a highly qualified firm of traffic engineers who have made a complete study and have pronounced this bridge financially feasible from a self-liquidating standpoint. This firm, Coverdale and Colpitts, has a reputation among financiers that is second to none. Their estimates of traffic on similar bridge problems have been unusually accurate. This firm states that the bridge can be paid for in less than 30 years.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature to give the Mackinac Bridge Authority a go-ahead signal. The immediate problem is to have plans and specifications ready so that when steel is available, probably in 1953, construction will not be delayed. It will take four years to construct the bridge and the sooner the actual start is made, the sooner Michigan will benefit.

We all know that the bottleneck at the Straits of Mackinac is stopping the progress of our tourist industry. We all know that business relations would be greatly improved if we had a bridge. It is a good judgment to get started on construction at the earliest possible moment. The Legislature has the opportunity to speed the efforts and we are confident that most of the members have the vision to realize that favorable action now is highly important to the economy of Michigan.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Don't be surprised if you see the Senator Russell boom veering over toward General Eisenhower at the last minute.

Though the Dixiecrats are hell-bent to have Russell stay in the race and even head up a splinter party, the senator from Georgia is too smart to do that. He is out not to split the Democratic party, but to accomplish two things: block Truman and block civil rights.

And close friends say that if President Truman bows out of the race, Senator Russell is more than likely to lead a drive to draft Eisenhower on the Democratic ticket. This is presuming, of course, that old-guard Republicans continue to treat Ike as if he had bubonic plague.

A good many Democrats, including even the President, have been watching the battle inside the Republican party with interest, inter-mixed with glee. They remember the olive branches sent to Eisenhower months ago suggesting that he run as a Democrat. And even the president dropped a word the other day indicating that it was not too late to bring Eisenhower into the Democratic fold—if the Republicans continued their isolationist foreign policy.

WASHINGTON PIPELINE

Ben Tate of Standard Brands, untiring promoter of Taft for President, says: "The only thing deceitful about Bob Taft is the way he combs his hair." Taft goes in for the MacArthur hair-do, letting his side-hair grow long and combing it over the top of his dome to hide the sparse spots. . . . Though Congressman Frank Boykin of Alabama is under investigation by the Justice Department in connection with RFC loans, about 400 fellow congressmen attended his birthday dinner at the Shoreham Hotel. Boykin still insists that "All is made for love." . . . Cleanup-man Newbold Morris is so intent on starting with a clean slate that he refused to accept used office furniture. . . . The Army's Field Manual 21-14, which cost several thousand dollars to publish, consists of twenty pages devoted to the subject of how, when and where to salute. . . . Washington has a new problem; trying to figure out whether Afghanistan, Greece or Spain produces the best sheep-herders. They're needed to increase our wool supply. . . . The nickel shortage will soon be overcome as a result of new production at the U. S. government nickel plant at Nicaro, Cuba. Nickel is essential for jet engines. . . . Senator Kerr of Oklahoma has promised private to support Senator Russell if Truman doesn't run.

NO TAX CLEAN-UP

Georgia friends of Senator George of Georgia who have watched his vehement opposition to reorganizing the Internal Revenue Bureau remember his battle with Franklin Roosevelt over the appointment of revenue collectors and other federal officers in Georgia. After Roosevelt's attempt to defeat Senator George in the Democratic primary in 1938, FDR appointed a committee of three men, Governor Ed Rivers, U. S. Attorney Lawrence Camp and State Democratic Chairman Gillis to handle federal jobs in Georgia. The plan was to keep federal jobs away from George, thereby preventing him from building up a powerful local machine. In the end, FDR became engrossed in the war, Truman did not carry out Roosevelt's patronage policies and federal jobs in Georgia drifted back to the old-time tradition by which the senators recommend candidates and the White House accepts them.

The collector of internal revenue is the most powerful political job in any state. As shown by the recent tax scandals, he can forgive taxes or collect them. And the senator who appoints a tax collector has more power than is derived from appointing a dozen postmasters. That's why a majority of the Senate Expenditures Committee voted against putting tax collectors under civil service. In other words, senators blast Truman and Internal Revenue for tax scandals, but refuse to go along with Truman in cleaning up the source of those scandals.

REWARD FOR A DIPLOMAT

Assistant Secretary of State Ed Miller, who has done more to promote the good-neighbor policy than anyone since Sumner Welles, was visiting in Puerto Rico and went to the town of Juncos, where he was born. This was a great occasion for Juncos and the mayor proclaimed a holiday. Moreover Miller was welcomed with a series of gala events which included the presentation of the most important gift the people of Juncos could think of—a prize-fighting cock.

Hope Of Eisenhower Faction Is Centered In New Hampshire Test

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

NEA Staff Correspondent

CONCORD, N. H.—(NEA)—Big wet snowflakes are falling as Gov. Sherman Adams comes down the Capitol steps. Bundled in a warm tweed overcoat and laden with a heavy package, he heads across the square to the headquarters of Dwight Eisenhower, Republican presidential candidate. Two reporters trail him.

The governor, a lean-faced, handsome man with iron gray hair, is one of the prime movers in the Eisenhower campaign. His small state—43rd among the 48 in area and 44th in population—will give the country the first real measure of the general's pulling power at the polls in its March 11 primary. But Adams won't discuss Eisenhower in the governor's office. He thinks state affairs and national politics don't mix. Hence the daily trek across to GHQ.

The objective is a little sliver of a store on Main Street, its narrow black front half-obscured by a big sign proclaiming: "We like Ike." The hopes of the general's supporters the nation over now center on these undistinguished premises.

Inside, the bare-looking rectangle of space is framed by walls of pale green stippled plaster, relieved here and there by poster declarations of allegiance to the candidate hero. A couple of large color blow-ups of "Ike" in multi-draw the eye. Lying around are cartons of pamphlets, boxes of buttons, an array of "Ike" skull caps, the usual assortment of political props.

Two typewriters, a pair of desks, a long table and a counter up front comprise the equipment of this crucial place. On this occasion, some New York radio men are prowling about, preparing future broadcast material. Somebody shouts into a phone: "Life wants pictures." An expressman appears to collect campaign "literature." Hollering seems the appropriate conversational tone.

As Adams walks in, a girl pipes up: "Oh, Governor, we got a dollar from Canada." This pleases him, and he smiles as he leads the way down a narrow staircase to the basement. This is the throne room, where decisions are made, and where newsmen get their chance to feel the pulse of the Eisenhower drive.

This low-ceilinged, overheated room is painted a cheerful yellow, but bright light enlivens it. The governor slips into a chair at a plain table, a few advisers and then the reporters range about him, and his daily joust with the press begins.

From this talk in a Concord store basement, from more conversation with Sen. Taft's leaders installed in quieter, more business-like quarters in a Manchester hotel room, from interviews with two score or more other political professionals, trained observers and ordinary New Hampshire citizens, a reporter is able to piece together a picture of the outlook for this significant primary.

The consensus of the impartial experts is still that Eisenhower will win, but that Taft, a late comer to the race, will give the general a rousing battle. Like some others, the New Hampshire contest March 11 is in two distinct parts. One is purely a popularity test of presidential candidates, the other an election of delegates to the national convention.

The best judgments now are that "Ike" and Taft will have a close struggle in the "beauty contest," with the general perhaps gaining a fair edge. But Eisenhower is expected to capture a substantial majority of the delegates.

In the popularity poll, the general and the senator are not alone. Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, is running. He gave Gov. Dewey a stiff fight here four years ago, and hence New Hampshire people hesitate to write him off this time. But the feeling is strong that no matter how hard he campaigns in the state he won't corral a big vote.

Stassen has no delegate candidates in competition, but Gen. Douglas MacArthur does. Though he repudiated the first effort to file a slate for him, other supporters put in another full list at the last minute.

The professionals don't regard MacArthur as a "clear-cut" candidate, but they believe he has a lot of latent strength in New Hampshire and are frankly puzzled as to how this might show itself on primary day. They expect him to get a light vote, but they are ready to be surprised.

Stassen may whittle Eisenhower's popular vote a little, since his appeal is considered to be to the same kind of voter who is attracted by "Ike." In the same way, MacArthur is a worry to the Taft forces, who recognize the basic similarity of the Taft and MacArthur approach to the nation's problems.

But fundamentally it is a Taft-Eisenhower engagement on the Republican side, with even the most optimistic Eisenhower backers conceding the senator a solid core of New Hampshire strength—mostly in rural areas—despite his late entry into the fray.

This contest overshadows the Democratic primary, where President Truman and Sen. Kefauver of Tennessee have squared off in both the popularity poll and the delegate election.

The regular Democratic high command confidently predicts Mr. Truman will take both ends of the double-header without trouble. One said Kefauver would be blanked on delegates and would not get more than 30 per cent of the popular vote.

Though Kefauver's chances in the delegate field look very slim, he may do better than figured in the beauty contest. The senator's recent "get acquainted" swing through the state was a success, and he wound up by choosing a good state committee to represent him.

Kefauver understands a poor showing here will nip his candidacy in the embryo stage. He plans a final speech-making tour to drum up every vote he can muster. Promising no miracles, he simply says: "I'll do the best I can."

Seven delegate candidates favorable to James Farley, former Democratic national chairman, are entered. But their presence on the list is not taken seriously.

Whatever happens on the Democratic side of the show, it is not figured to distract the nation's eyes from the main event under the Republican tent.

Before taking any solution in regard to the European army why do we not launch an appeal to Russia to see if the Soviets are in accord, as they have said, to undertake arbitration, security and disarmament?—Edouard Daladier, former French premier.

Good Evening...

By CLINT DUNATHAN

THE SMELT EATERS—Since mid-January Escanaba smelt have been slipping down the throats of a couple circus seals at a rapid rate, accompanying the seals' appreciative "arf! arf!" and the applause of the spectators.

The animals belong to a Mr. Spiller, who conducts his business under the name of Spiller's Seals; and the fish are shipped to him in amounts varying from 200 to 300 pounds per week from the Jensen & Jensen market at Escanaba.

Spiller's Seals played at the U. P. State Fair last year in Escanaba and Spiller remembered where he could get smelt on his winter tour, largely with Shrine circuses, through the Middle West.

Roy Jensen reports that he has shipped smelt to Spiller at cities in Illinois, Indiana and Kentucky this winter. Now playing at Medina Shrine Temple in Chicago, Spiller's next stop will be Cincinnati, O., where another shipment of Escanaba smelt will await his animated sealskin coats.

NOT JUVENILE CRIME—Escanaba city council in discussing a new city bicycle ordinance found that juvenile violators of the ordinance will not escape punishment.

Boys and girls under 17 who violate the ordinance will be referred to the police department, and City Manager A. V. Aronson said the usual penalty is to have the juveniles write several score times the law they violated.

"This makes them remember—and improves their penmanship," Aronson smiled. Representatives of the League of Women Voters, present at the meeting as observers, laughed appreciatively.

Note: The ordinance does have teeth for persons 17 and older. They will be hailed into justice court where they face fine and costs on conviction.

FOUR LONELY CORPORALS—In today's mail is a letter from Kije-Do, Korea, dated Feb. 25. The letter was postmarked Feb. 29, came air mail, and arrived in Escanaba March 7.

"Dear editor:

"We are writing your paper for the purpose of receiving some mail. We are located in the 64th Field Hospital, Kije-Do, Korea.

"It is quite lonesome here throughout the day and the only thing we have to look forward to is mail call. When your name is not called out it makes you feel sort of lost and lonely.

"The reason we picked your paper is this, my buddy and I have spent a few days in your town and we enjoyed ourselves very much. The people there seemed to be very friendly and generous.

"We sure would appreciate your help in this matter. Thank you very much.

THE CLEAN PEOPLE — The Michigan Conservation Department, pointing the way to public cooperation in keeping state parks and playgrounds clean, direct attention to the fact that in Switzerland the people have learned their lesson. Max Eastman, writing in Reader's Digest, says you don't find defaced landscapes and littered picnic grounds in Switzerland. Training in neatness begins in the schools.

"In this country public usage means progressive deterioration or the maintenance of a public valet system to pick up and repair after the public passes," notes the Conservation Department.

The Swiss undoubtedly would be scandalized by the appearance of Northern Michigan roadsides in springtime. As the snow melts there is uncovered to public view the garbage and refuse discarded by motorists during the winter months.

Michigan has its laws against such acts and a few violators are caught and punished. The better system, of course, is a public educated to the virtues of keeping public places neat and clean.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

CUTLETS, HAMLETS, AND OMELETS

If a "cutlet" is a small chop, is a "hamlet" a small ham? Then what about "omelet," "amulet," and "bracelet"?

"Amulet" (AM-yu-let) from French "amulette," came from Latin "amuletum," which was the name of a charm usually hung about the neck by the Romans of old to guard them against sickness. And in "omelet" (AHM-i-let or AHM-let) the ending was also accidental.

This word had a curious and easily traced history. In the manner familiar to language students, it came from a shifting about of sounds in the earlier form of the word. Thus "omelet" was formed from "alemette." But "alemette" was in turn preceded by the Old French "alemele." The meaning of this was "a thin plate"; in modern French, under the spelling "alumele," it names the sheathing of a ship. So "omelet" had nothing to do with French "ouf," eggs, as some scholars have suggested, but comes from its flat, thin form.

The original ending meaning little or small was not "let" but "et." "Bracelet" was not formed from "brace" and "let," but from Old French "bracelet" and "et." Thus naming a narrower or thinner ornamental band than the "bracelet." But because of this and similar combinations of "et" with French words ending in "l," the notion spread in England that the ending "let" could also be attached to words to give them a diminutive sense.

Early among such words, introduced in the late sixteenth century, were "armlet," a little arm of the sea, and "inlet," a narrow entrance from the sea. Since then there have been many others—booklet, brooklet, cloudlet, droplet, leaflet, and cutlet and hamlet along with many more.

But "cutlet" is not a little chop; it is a little rib. Its origin was Old French "coste," a rib. The modern French "cotelette" is the parent of our "cutlet." And "hamlet" is not a small ham, but a small village. Its source is Old British "ham," a dwelling, a home.

Saint Paul: Misunderstood Christian

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D.

By universal consent, I believe, Paul, the Apostle, has been regarded as among the greatest men who have lived.

He was the first great Christian missionary, traveling widely in that ancient world, and the first to bring Christianity to Europe.

No one ever pursued a great purpose with more single-minded devotion, amazing strength of character and a sublime and implacable courage. Suffering, persecution, threats, and perils, could not shake Paul from his mission "to testify the gospel of the grace of God."

Yet Paul with all his greatness has not escaped the barbs of controversy, both in the past and in our own times. Not long ago there was a formidable movement in the religious world, that took as its watchword, "Back to Jesus."

It led to what was called "Paulinism," the implication being that through Paul there had been a departure from what Paul himself called "the simplicity that is in Christ" (II Corinthians 11:3).

Paul was a profound and entirely consecrated disciple of Jesus and his interpretation of the Master's life, teaching, and ministry of salvation was sound in word and deed.

When, then, comes the discrepancy that makes Paul a figure of controversy, and that leads some to turn from him, thinking to come nearer to the Christ?

I think it arises from a misconception of what to me is the very heart of Paul's teaching. It centers around the doctrine of the atonement, and especially Paul's expositions in the Epistle to the Romans.

Paul was writing to those in whose minds was firmly fixed the idea of the necessity of a sacrifice for sin. It was engrained in Old Testament religion, with its animal sacrifices, and its notion of the scapegoat bearing the sins of others.

Yet even in Old Testament religion there were prophetic souls, who declared that "to obey is better than sacrifice" (I Samuel 15:22), and that "the sacrifices of God are a broken spirit; a broken spirit aid a contrite heart" (Psalm 51:17).

To these, and to all who follow the false and superstitious notion that salvation is through sacrifice and punishment of a scapegoat, rather than through repentance, and the manifestation of the pardoning grace of God, Paul was saying, in effect, God Himself is the sacrifice.

When I was a boy I used often to hear a hymn sung, with this verse:
"My God is reconciled
His pardoning voice I hear;
He owns me for His child
I can no longer fear."

But the first line is all wrong. What does Paul say? He says that "God was in Christ reconciling the world unto Himself." He constantly urges men to be reconciled to God. God is not the one who is reconciled; He is the great Reconciler.

This is the very heart of the Gospel that Jesus proclaimed, and that Paul preached and expounded. He called it "the glorious gospel of the grace of God."

Modern Tempo Is Too Rapid

By ROBERT C. RUARK
NEW YORK—Once in a while, when the state of the French cabinet, taxes, Truman, inflation, wars, Russians, diseases, diets, dandruff, and the diagnoses for all the ills from athlete's ankle to trichinosis of the tricycle start to chew away at my nerves, I like to stop and dwell a bit on my Uncle Jimmy.

Uncle Jimmy believed a few things fervently. One of the things he believed was that haste made waste, and anybody who got himself in an uproar was apt to unsettle his digestion and maybe cause the roof to leak. Uncle Jimmy tended store in a little town called Southport, N. C. I say he tended it—actually, he supervised its presence.

They tell a story about Uncle Jimmy that fits my mood right now. Seems he was sitting on something on the front piazza of his store one day, enjoying the sunshine and contemplating his tummy. A young man whizzed up and said:

"Mister Jimmy, I want a half-pound of tennepenny nails."

"Fine, son," Uncle Jimmy said. "Go right on into the store and weigh 'em out yourself."

The young man disappeared, into the little general store, and after five minutes or so he came out.

Jimmy Finds The Nails
"Mister Jimmy," he said. "I looked high and I looked low, and doggoned if I seen hide nor hair of any tennepenny nails."

"I know we got some somewhere," Uncle Jimmy replied. "You best go back and look 'em up some more. Look back there behind where we keep the ginger snaps and the sour pickle kags. They got to be somewhere."

The young man vanished. Then minutes passed before he was back, empty-handed.

"Dog take it, Mister Jimmy," he said. "I looked everywhere from under the over-halls to up on the shelf where you keep the apple tobacco, and there ain't nary a nail in the house. Not no tennepenny nails, anyhow, there ain't."

Uncle Jimmy scratched himself and looked annoyed. "Sure's gun's iron, son," he said. "I reckon we got a whole kag of those tennepenny nails in here no longer ago 'n yesterday or the day before. I swear I can't imagine what went with 'em unless some..."

Uncle Jimmy lifted his head and, and remembrance struck.

"Why, sho, son," he said. "All the time we been talking 'bout them nails and all the time you were lookin' for 'em in the store, I just remember I been sittin' on that kag of nails the whole doggoned time. Suppose, son," Uncle Jimmy said, "you just come back here tomorrow and pick up your nails."

My Uncle Jimmy, it seems to me, was a man of admirable restraint, and he lived long and happily. He was parcel of a serene period when people most generally died of old age instead of some fancy doctor's delight—an age in which the gallop'n' consumption and heart disease were about the only diagnosable fatal ills. It was an age yet unexploited by psychiatrists, television, the airplane, or the virus infection.

There was no such thing in those days as a diet. It was assumed that people who passed their prime would get fat, and any middle-aged woman who was not comfortably bolstered was a bad advertisement for her own kitchen.

Taxes, while technically in existence, were so minuscule as to be invisible to all but millionaires, who paid two percent or some such ridiculous figure. The state had not discovered liquor as a blackmail device to prey on man's weakness—pre-lodged bonded stuff was a buck or so the full 32-ounce quart, and when prohibition came, non-blinding shine sold in fruit jars for 50 cents a quart or $1.50 the gallon.

There was literally nothing so imperative that it couldn't wait another day, like Uncle Jimmy's keg of nails. We had no radio to impress us with doom, no atom to brood about, and Europe was so far away that nobody but rich assyety folks and sailors ever went there. Gentlemen chewed tobacco and spat into the sand, and ladies stayed out of politics and, largely, out of commerce.

I was mighty young, but I remember it as a pleasant time. And I am wondering today if destiny would not be served as well if everybody waited until tomorrow to come back for those tennepenny nails—especially when the man that owns 'em is sittin' on 'em.

Flu Medicine Found At Indiana Still Tests Up 80 Proof

NOBLESVILLE, Ind.—(P)—A 89-year-old factory worker's efforts to combat the influenza epidemic didn't get much sympathy from state police.

Jesse Carter told the police he was making "flu medicine" in five-gallon cans, copper tubing and 50-gallon wooden drums they confiscated at his cabin.

Two gallons of the "medicine" they also confiscated, tested 80 proof. They charged Carter with possessing untaxed liquor and with owning a still.

Time Magazine Says Don Cook Has Plenty Of 'Fizz'

Donald Cook, of Escanaba, new chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, is the subject of an interesting article in the current issue of Time Magazine.

Time's article, which includes a photograph of Cook, printed in the Business and Finance section, is entitled "Fizz and Vinegar". The article follows:

When 26-year-old Donald Cook joined the SEC as a lowly financial examiner in 1935, he "wanted some day to be a commissioner and if the fates were kind..." Last week the fates, in the form of Harry Truman, were kind. The President named Cook SEC Chairman to succeed Harry A. McDonald, who took over as RFC boss. Cook is a tough-talking, fast-moving bureaucrat with a sharp legal and financial mind and the desire to get up some of the old fizz and vinegar that SEC had in the '30s.

"Cook has fizz to spare. As a youngster in Escanaba, Mich., he started peddling papers, helped work his way through the University of Michigan with a job in the library and with bridge winnings, and started at the bottom in SEC. He got a law degree at night school, moved up to assistant director, then spent two years in the Justice Department before he left Government service in June 1947 to enter private law practice.

"Small job. Before long, he was making close to $100,000 a year, made another chunk playing the market. In 1949, when he was worth $250,000, he felt he 'could afford' to go back to SEC as a commissioner. But the job wasn't big enough to keep him busy. So in 1950 he became chief counsel to Senator Lyndon Johnson's 'watchdog' committee on preparedness, even though he had to do most of his work at night. He was largely responsible for the committee's reports on wasteful military spending, tin, etc.

In his new job, Cook will step right into the middle of a red-hot fight between his agency and the nation's stock exchanges and brokers. The SEC has been collecting about $1,000,000 a year in fees from stock exchanges and registrants of new issues and for minor SEC chores. A month ago, in line with a congressional command to make itself more self-supporting, SEC announced that it would levy seven new types of fees. Among them: an annual registration fee of $50 for brokers and dealers, plus $10 for each partner, employee, etc. engaged in selling securities or supervising the sale; a registration fee of from $30 to $250 for investment companies and a registration fee ranging from $500 to $25,000 for public-utility companies. All told, SEC expects to raise $1,225,000 a year in the new fees, which would still leave it operating $3,600,000 in the red next year.

"Big uproar. Last week, New York Stock Exchange President G. Keith Funston charged that the fees were not fees at all, but a tax: 'If the (SEC) can impose this type of tax, so could every other Government agency... the Department of Agriculture might place a tax of so much per acre upon every farmer.'

"Cook snapped right back that the new assessments were fees and he intended to collect them. He added: 'These boys are tough and they play rough.... They know legally we are right. If this is unconstitutional, they can take it to court.'

Communists Seek To Sow Seeds Of Chaos

(Editor's note: The seeds of chaos are being planted in Germany. The harvest may be a long way off, but Moscow is counting on it. William L. Ryan, AP foreign news analyst who is on a tour of Europe, surveys the German situation in this article, last of a series of four.)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
FRANKFURT —(P)— Boring from within....

That's the openly proclaimed policy for Communists in Western Germany. The World Federation of Trade Unions, an all-purpose revolutionary arm of Moscow, has made it clear.

But there are secret plans, too, for tying the drive in this country to the world revolution Stalin seeks. The WFTU keeps quiet about those plans, but there is no doubt remaining that they call for creating chaos, if any when Moscow sees the chance.

As in other countries, the WFTU has its specific program for West Germany, meshed with the overall European and world plans.

The drive in Germany, as elsewhere in Europe, is aimed at the strategic industries. Some competent observers here express concern at the inroads it appears to be making.

Move On Ruhr
Attempts at infiltration have been considerably stepped up in the industrial Ruhr Valley, where the Communists have built up a strong party organization. Semi-official sources place the Communist party strength in Western Germany at 375,000 members, of whom fully 150,000 are in the strategic Ruhr.

Communist strength within the West German trade unions had been falling off steadily, along with Communist overall voting strength in West Germany, until about mid-1951. Now, however, with the concerted Red campaign keyed to the rearmament issue, Red strength has been making some gains in union ranks. This is confirmed by persons in a position to know.

Just how much the Communists have gained is known only to the party itself. Communist headquarters keeps to itself the figures on its strength within the unions, and Western Allied sources decline to estimate it at the present time.

The Communists have several trump cards which are being used with some success. One is the remilitarization issue. Another is the issue of German reunification. A third is the fear that Germany will become a battleground for a third World War—a strong fear in a country still reeling from the effects of the last conflict.

Labor Protests
The West German trade union federation has about six million members and exerts a powerful political influence. The great bulk of its membership is strongly anti-Communist. But there have been many labor protests against Western plans to rearm the Germans.

The powerful Social Democratic party, chief opposition to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's dominant Christian Democrats, is as fiercely anti-Communist as any political party in Europe. Yet the Social Democrats have adopted a stand against remilitarization which is similar in tone to that taken by the Communist-controlled trade unions in Eastern Germany.

Communists Seek To Sow Seeds Of Chaos

The Communists already are actively engaged in a campaign in this country within individual factories in strategic industries, to agitate against the Western defense program. The hand of the WFTU is clearly in evidence.

The WFTU program is under the direction of Moscow's Communist International Information Bureau (Cominform). Its long-range plans, here and elsewhere, are geared with the forthcoming "unity of action" campaign, and with the campaign of "national resistance," both in European countries and the Middle East, to the United States. The plans also are tied in with a propaganda line built about the term super-exploitation. This accuses the United States of exploiting the working class of Europe in a drive to prepare for war.

Creatures Of State
The WFTU is closely linked with all major Soviet propaganda drives, such as the Berlin peace appeal, which it helped organize. The WFTU claims to represent 80 million members in 64 countries, but the bulk of this membership is in the Soviet Union, where the trade unions are simply creatures of the state.

Executive council members of the WFTU include such persons as Louis Saillant and Benoit Frachon of France; Giuseppe Di Vittorio, the WFTU president who heads Italy's Communist-controlled general confederation of Italian labor; and V. V. Kuznetsov, head of the state-controlled unions of the USSR.

These men have outlined the WFTU's open aims in Germany—to support all strikes and agitation against remilitarization, to infiltrate non-Communist labor ranks, to agitate for the kind of peace Moscow wants, to campaign for "independence from imperialist exploitation."

All this was made public in Berlin last November, at a meeting which hailed Stalin and vilified the United States. The secret aims laid down at that meeting were something else. This program includes plans for sudden, swift action if and when the Soviet Union sees the need to paralyze Western countries by striking at the vital industries and stirring up political chaos.

That is the path charted for the Trojan horse in West Germany.

The Knickerbocker school of writers, which included Fitzgerald, Greene Haeckel and Joseph Rodman Drake, were followers of Washington Irving.

the right half of "The Blackdale." These rooms are all connected by a central hallway leading from a door in the right living room wall. A large linen closet opens on this hallway beside the doorway from the living room. In this location the linen closet is conveniently near to both the bedrooms and the bathroom.

Receiving ample light and ventilation through one window in its front wall, the all modern bath contains both a tub and a shower. The den or bedroom receives good light and ventilation through two windows in its back wall. This 11'x11'4" room contains two closets—a feature that will be especially appreciated if this room is used as a bedroom for two members of the family.

Measuring 12'x11', the back bedroom receives good lighting and cross ventilation from the room and the other window in the back wall of the room.

There also is a large closet in the front bedroom which is 11 foot square in measurements.

Too Much Responsibility Is As Bad As Too Little

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

(Q) "Is this mother being fair to her two teenage daughters? Both girls are in high school. When they come home from school, they do the housework and take care of a four year old nephew for three hours. For this, they receive two dollars a week between them. The older girl works also in a store over week-ends. The mother works and their father has been out of work for several months. The girls are considering quitting school. I think too much to do was thrown on them suddenly and I feel sorry for them. Now is the time they should have a little time to themselves."—I. F.

(A) I agree that these two girls are carrying burdens too heavy for their years. Too much responsibility can be as harmful as too little. The person who is subjected to too many responsibilities either gives up in despair or cracks under the strain.

Of course girls of this age should have some time to themselves. Otherwise, they cannot do good work in school and their personalities will suffer. They should be initiated into responsibilities slowly with adequate time to assume them well and with confidence.

Even though the mother works, surely she can do some of the work in the home too. The number of hours a week a woman can work in business and industry is controlled by law and it is not so heavy that other duties at home must be neglected.

Then there is the father. If his health is so poor that he cannot work, the whole family would gladly make sacrifices to meet the emergency. But, if he is in good health, it seems incredible that he cannot get something to do in these days when there is such a shortage of workers.

While he is looking for a job, there should be time during the day when he could do some of the work in the home. If he did this, it would give his wife and daughters more time for rest, relaxation, and pleasures. The women of the family should not be the home-makers and the breadwinners while the husband sits around in idleness.

Urge the girls not to give up their schooling, even though they find the burden too heavy now. They would be handicapped for the rest of their lives if they neglected their education. You might be able to get them baby-sitting jobs that would pay better so that they would not have to work so many hours a day.

Dr. Hurlock is author of 12 books in psychology. Her advice in this column is free. Write her in care of this newspaper.

Today's Recipes

Praline Cookies

Ingredients:

- ½ cup sweetened condensed milk
- ½ cup dark brown sugar (firmly packed)
- 2 tbs. butter or margarine
- 1 egg (beaten)
- ¼ cup flour
- 1 cup chopped nut meats
- ½ tsp. maple flavoring

Method:

Put sweetened condensed milk and sugar in top of double boiler. Cook over rapidly boiling water until very thick, about 4 to 8 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in butter or margarine, blending well. Cool slightly. Gradually stir into beaten egg. Blend in flour. Add nut meats and flavoring, mixing well. Drop tablespoonsfuls onto greased cookie sheet, about 2 inches apart, and spread into 2-inch circles. Bake in moderate (350 F.) oven until edges are a golden brown, about 15 minutes. Remove quickly from baking sheet. Makes 24 2½ inch cookies.

Want a new dessert? Use ground peppermint stick candy to sweeten cup custards, then serve with a thin chocolate sauce.

LUDINGTON BUY-LINES

BET you'll feel doggy in a new poodle cloth coat. If it's from the Mata Brown Shoppe it will be the pet of your Spring wardrobe, because the poodle cloth is imported fabric. The manufacturer went overseas for the material, and you'll go overboard for the final results. Both brief and full length styles available in pastels and navy. One very brief navy colored coat has simply huge full length sleeves which can button back to the new shorter length. At the Mata Brown Shoppe there is also a shipment of smart fleece coats cut in a grand manner. Warm, wool and wonderful — it's a pleasure being fleeced at Mata's!

With poor relatives it's usually touch and go! If you're interested in a quick touch, just look me to the Office Service Company where you'll find the new Smith — Corona Portable typewriter with action that makes it the world's finest and fastest portable. You touch and it will really go places! Best of all, the new Smith-Corona portable machine has the amazing page-gage. Introduced a year ago on the office typewriter, this sensation tells you how much space is left at the bottom of the page. Insures neatness—saves time and paper. See it at OSCO!

I've met so many Irish policemen that I think Ireland must be a little like the Upper Peninsula—a great copper producing country! Sure, and berrah the day for the Irish isn't very far off. Down at the Photo Art Shop you'll find St. Patrick's Day cards of great humor and originality. Priced from 10c to 25c and just the thing to send to your friends or even your parents to show them how proud you are of that Irish ancestry. It's the Photo Art Shop for the wearin' of the green. Attractive place cards, too!

SOME salesmen I know need to have the wind taken out of their sails! Which brings me around to the present unusual matter that you'll want to see. It's "Death of a Salesman"—the Pulitzer Prize-winning play now made into a great motion picture by Stanley Kramer. The starring role is played by Fredric March who has been twice winner of the Academy Award for his sterling performances. This extraordinary picture comes to the Michigan Theater on Sunday. Unusual effects by Hollywood photographers allow the audience to see the past and present simultaneously in imaginative sets. You may be death on salesmen, but you'll be a lively champion of "Death of a Salesman"!

THE bad luck in meeting a black cat really depends on whether you're a man or a mouse. And the good luck you have in meeting up with Gartner's depends on whether or not you're a woman! Just between us girls, this new store at 902 Ludington St., has been filled with clothes that make me glad to belong to the female sex and the nuder gender! You'll want to stop in soon for a look at the marvelous suits and coats, the precious cottons, the exquisite handbags. There are really new styles and fabrics available for the woman who likes her clothes to be a bit distinctive. Gartner's are happy to have you come browsing; but I know that once you're in the store you'll soon be all wrapped up in something luscious!

MARCH — when income tax chislers come in lyin' and go out on the lam. Also the time for you to be thinking of Spring sewing projects. So march right down to Maytag Sales where you'll find I'm not lyin' when I say the Necchi is a lamb of a sewing machine! This is the wonder of the machine age—does a multitude of different stitches without any special attachments. You just push a lever and produce a zig-zag, embroidery stitch, hemming, and darning. You can even sew on buttons in nothing flat! A Necchi is sew nice!

7 COME 11! No risk in serving a crowd with a big 7 dish lazy-susan from Eden's. That's why I say you have 7—come 11 or 12 guests or more! Six large dishes surround the center casserole. All are fine oven pottery and fit on the attractive wooden lazy-susan. The pottery comes in either yellow, lime, or forest green. A cover for the center casserole, or not, as you choose. The susans are 16 or 18 inches in diameter and are set on fine ball bearings. If you've said "no dice" to entertaining a crowd, try it with a big new lazy-susan from Eden's Gift Shop and no party will throw you!

THERE seems to be one easy way to live a long life. Just be somebody's rich uncle! An easy way to insure long life to a man's suit is to see that it gets frequent cleaning and pressing at the NuWay Cleaners. If the inheritance from that rich uncle hasn't come thru yet, and you have to make your present suit do for you, Easter finery, just make sure to get it to the NuWay Cleaners! Spanking clean results that will have you saying, "Mama, pin a rose on me!"

Detroit Woman Dies In Crash

Mrs. Hazel Johnson, 34, of 25331 Hass St., Dearborn, was killed instantly about 7 last night when a panel truck she was driving went out of control and rolled over on US-2 a mile east of Manistique.

Her father, Fred S. Hahn, 62, of Romulus, riding with her, suffered cuts, bruises and shock and was taken to the Schoolcraft Memorial Hospital.

Manistique state police reported that Mrs. Johnson's neck was broken when she is believed to have been thrown from the truck.

Mrs. Johnson, traveling west and enroute to Minot, N. D., attempted to pass a car in front, not realizing that another car was trying to pass her at the same time.

The car behind, driven by Mrs. Margaret Adkins, of 33 Suniah St., Port Arthur, Canada, sounded its horn, causing Mrs. Johnson to swerve sharply back to her lane of traffic.

Three Manistique township youths in the car ahead—Carl Klagstad, 18, John Klagstad, 17, and Donald Jenerou, 17—witnessed the accident. The Johnson truck rolled over and came to rest on its top across the road. The youths reported the woman's body was found on the road shoulder near the overturned truck.

The Port Arthur woman, who passed the Johnson car after it swerved out of the way, was unaware of the accident until she was stopped and questioned later by Gladstone state police.

The body was taken to the Mesier-Broullire funeral home.

Seek Vote On Smoke Measure

A petition signed by approximately 350 local citizens, including 290 taxpayers, requesting that the proposal of adopting a city smoke ordinance be submitted to voters at the April 7 election, was presented to the city clerk yesterday.

The petition was circulated by Mrs. Louise Welch, 306 Chippewa Ave., who has long carried on a campaign here to have a smoke, soot and fly ash problem solved.

The preamble to the petition follows:

"We, the undersigned taxpayers, petition the Manistique City Council to act on a smoke ordinance to provide for the control of smoke, soot, fly ash, cinders, gases, vapor or industrial dusts that cause atmospheric contaminations in amounts detrimental to the public health and destruction of property, to be submitted to a vote of the people at the April 7, 1936 election, and if passed to be enforced at once."

Brawley To Help With Intangibles Tax On March 20

Bernard H. Brawley, 436 Oak St., a representative of the Michigan Department of Revenue, will be at the Schoolcraft County Court House on Thursday, March 20, between 1 and 5 p. m., to assist taxpayers in preparing intangible tax returns.

Brawley also will be at the American Legion club building in Munising on March 21 between 1 and 5 p. m.

Another representative, Norman Risk, will aid Luce County intangible taxpayers on March 13 from 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m. He will be stationed at the Newberry State Bank.

Intangible personal property subject to the tax includes all mortgages, land contracts, bank accounts, cash, postal savings accounts, accounts and notes receivable, corporate stocks, corporate bonds and other similar types of property.

All U. S. bonds, however, are exempt from the tax, and the tax on deposits in Michigan banks and building and loan associations, will be paid to the department directly by the banks or associations. Returns on the intangibles tax must be filed on or before March 31.

Many Volunteers Help Rotarians In Vote Campaign

Volunteer workers from five other organizations assisted the Manistique Rotary club in conducting its "register and vote" campaign during the past few weeks in Manistique, it is announced.

In addition to Rotarians, the survey was made by volunteers from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Lions Club, Manistique Woman's Club, Lincoln Parent-Teacher Association, and Local 224 of the Papermakers Union.

First phase of the campaign closed yesterday, final day for registration for the biennial city election on April 7. The survey, however, will be reactivated preceding future city and county elections, it is reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Larson and son, Erik, have returned after spending some time in Florida with relatives.

Boss Of Manistique Lumbering Interests Was Tall, Silent Man

By W. S. CROWE

Abijah Weston was a tall, lean, powerful man with a fringe of white whiskers which reminded one of Horace Greeley's pictures. He "commuted" 2 or 3 times each summer between Tonawanda and Manistique on the "Buell", the flagship of his "TBL" fleet of 12 ships. Neither the Chicago Lumbering Co. nor the Weston Lumber Co. had any financial interest in the Tonawanda Barge Line, although some of their stockholders did.

It took the "Buell" and her barges several days to load, and Mr. Weston would spend the time inspecting the mills and yards, with an occasional trip into the woods with Mr. Orr. Quite often he would bring a pine stick into the directors room and, absorbed in his thoughts, would sit and whittle by the hour, leaving the food covered with several inches of shavings when he left. He was a silent man of few words, but very polite, and we in the office stood rather in awe of him. He had other timber holdings aside from his controlling interest in the Chicago and Weston Lumber Co.'s and the Weston Furnace Co., then located at the site of the present city garage. He sold his Weston Furnace Co. which was succeeded by the Burrell Chemical Co., and the Lake Superior Iron & Chemical Co., afterwards reorganized as the Charcoal Iron Co. of America.

Had Utility Interests
A. Weston & Son also owned one of the largest yards in North Tonawanda, then the leading lumber distributing port in the United States, and his estate was heavily interested in power developments at Niagara Falls. I happened to be in Tonawanda when the Niagara Falls Power Co. was building a power house, and Mr. DeGraft (manager of A. Weston & Son) gave me a card to the supervisor. Down at the bottom of a 200 foot penstock where they were installing a turbine wheel, it gave one an eerie feeling to hear the rumbling of the mighty falls only a short distance away.

The highest water ever seen in the Manistique River was in 1914. It was almost up to the girders of the Soo Line bridge, and we had "Ab" Gage and a crew of rivermen piling sand bags on the levees above for days. We weren't afraid after it got past the bridge, as both dams below were wide open with all slash boards off, and although they were completely submerged with a solid sheet of water three feet deep pouring over the tops, we knew they would hold.

Built Quick Dams
I said to Mr. Gage, "You must have had pretty good engineers when you built these dams," and he said, "Our mill and river crews built them with the help of the millwrights and a surveyor who knew how to run levels. There was a 25 foot rapids in the river, and we had no data or records to go on, so we studied the shores and the timber along the banks and could tell the highest point the rivers had ever reached, and built them with a good margin above that. We made sure they were big and strong enough to hold."

In 1917 an outside engineer planned the present flume leading to the paper mill, and the highway siphon bridge to replace the old iron truss "red bridge," and also a concrete bridge for the Ann Arbor R. R. to replace their old iron truss bridge just above the highway bridge. Looking at this new railroad bridge with its deep girders and only two open spans, and also at the changes being made at the upper dam, some of us told him that he wasn't leaving enough channel for the river. Looking down his nose at us, he said: "This flume will carry all the water that will ever come down that river."

But, just three years after, although the water wasn't as high as it was in 1914, it broke through the new works and did over half a million dollars damage to west side property, wrecking the Goodwillie plant, doing a lot of damage to the paper mill, washing out streets and railroad tracks, and ruining a lot of homes with the water and mud up into their second stories. For a week or two the only communication between the east and west sides of the city was on foot over the Soo Line bridge. After this happened the bottle neck under the Ann Arbor R. R. bridge was enlarged.

Prior to 1920, Manistique never suffered from high water damage, and it was about the only 100 per cent Michigan lumber town which was never seriously threatened by or suffered from a forest fire.

And, speaking of high water damage, a disastrous flood on Indian Lake in 1943 did a lot of damage to resort properties and cottages, a contributing cause of this damage being the costly mistake made some 25 years ago by the then county engineer when he diverted the Indian River from its natural channel at the outlet and cut a new channel through a sand bar, and built a new bridge without the capacity to take care of emergency floods.

In June, 1945, after considerable discussion and a petition signed by 95 per cent of the property owners on the lake, an official level was established by court order, and as it is the responsibility of the County Board of Supervisors under the law to maintain this level, action will no doubt be eventually taken by them to do so.

Takes Car, Then Gives Self Up

Wallace C. Vertz, 32, of Manistique, surrendered voluntarily to Menominee city police about midnight Thursday after stealing a car belonging to the Delta Hardware Company, Escanaba, on Oak street early Thursday evening.

Vertz told Manistique state police yesterday afternoon that he had been drinking but was not drunk when he walked past a car parked in front of the Barnes Hotel and decided on impulse to get in it and drive off.

He came to his senses later in Menominee, he reported, and went directly to Menominee police and gave himself up.

After spending the rest of Thursday night and part of yesterday in the Menominee county jail, Vertz was brought back here yesterday afternoon by local state police. He was lodged in the Schoolcraft county jail last night.

Jack Ridings, of Escanaba, driver of the car, reported the theft to state police about 8 p. m. Thursday. He had parked the car about 5:45, he said.

Youth Planning Easter Service

An Easter sunrise breakfast for all local youth will be sponsored by the recently organized Manistique Youth Council of Churches, it is announced.

The council is a part of the United Christian Youth Movement which promoted a call program here during National Youth Week.

A worship service, followed by the breakfast, will be held at the Bethel Baptist church at 7 a. m., Easter Sunday. The order of service will be announced later.

The kitchen committee is composed of Carol Martinson, Margaret Quick, and Marlene Marks. Planning the service and directing publicity are Mac Howland, Maurice Creeger and Ann McClothlin. Tickets, which will be available soon, may be purchased from Hugh Kennedy or any member of council committee.

Plans for the service and breakfast were made at a meeting of the council Thursday at the home of the Rev. Paul Sobel, Presbyterian pastor.

Gets 90 Days For Forgery

George L. Ryers, 17, arrested Wednesday in Marquette on a forgery charge, was sentenced to 90 days in jail following his arraignment yesterday afternoon in local justice court.

Because of his age a misdemeanor charge was placed against Ryers. A felony count would have placed hearing of his case in circuit court.

Ryers pleaded guilty to forging a check for $30 which was cashed by a local store. The check was made out to George L. Rydquist and forged with name of Mack LaFave.

Authorities reported that the young man also had forged a second check which was cashed in a local business establishment.

Ryers was picked up in Marquette by Chief of Police Roy D. Anderson and Deputy Sheriff John M. Hewitt. The checks were passed here on Feb. 26.

Hawks Square Playoff Series With 6-3 Win Over Pioneers

With a rousing and convincing 6-3 victory over the champion Portage Lake Pioneers before more than 1,000 highly pleased fans here last night, the Escanaba Hawks squared the best-of-three series at one-all and set the stage for a tremendous fight in the saw-off in Houghton's big Dee Stadium tomorrow afternoon.

The Pioneers barely nipped the Hawks in the overtime in the first clash in Houghton last Wednesday night, and they know they will have a battle on their hands to turn the trick tomorrow. The game will start at 2:30 Eastern Standard time, and scores of Escanaba fans plan to be there then to see the "battle royal."

The winner of tomorrow's game will play Marquette, winner in two straight over Calumet, in a three-out-of-five series for the Northern Michigan Hockey league championship.

They Can Do It
With the Hawks on the upgrade, unscafed after last night's thriller and geared for an upset win on Houghton's spacious rink, the first championship finals without a Copper Country representative appeared to be at least a reasonable possibility.

Escanaba came close last Wednesday. Barring a couple of mighty tough breaks in the overtime, the Hawks might have had a final berth already won. But they are geared for the big effort tomorrow, and tomorrow may be the day to get over the Portage Lake hump in Houghton.

"We came out of last night's game without any injuries, and we're really set to go the limit against Portage Lake tomorrow," Coach Mark Olson said this morning. "We felt we should have had a win Wednesday and thus would be already in the finals, so we're going after them Sunday."

A tremendous effort in the first period, when Goalie Ray Luoto had 14 stops to 12 for Ben Artwick, provided the Hawks their margin of victory last night.

Fast First Period
Both teams came out determined to get in the first punch. It was as fast and interesting a period of hockey as has been played at Escanaba's fairgrounds rink all season. Both teams went at top speed the first 20 minutes of play, and the Hawks came out on top by 3-2 on goals by Mark and Ted Olson and Jerry Tagliabacci to more than offset Jim Shetney's opener 2:20 and Tony Bukovich's lone goal of the night.

Ted laid a beautiful pass to brother Mark for Escanaba's first tally at 10:20, and Ted got one from scrimmage at 14:10 to make it 2-1. "Tag" let Tony Bukovich slip behind him in the clear a few seconds later, but the big boy came back to make up for it with a honey of a solo effort at 16:35 to give the Hawks their 3-2 lead going into the second.

The pace was bound to tell on both sextets. Play was somewhat slower but no less interesting in the middle period. Both concentrated on tight defensive hockey for the big third period, and not until 15:35 did Joe Bukovich slap a rebound in to tie it at 3-3 going into the third.

Hard Checking
Then, the Hawks' fine combination work paid off. Joe Ricci capitalized on passes from the Olson brothers at 2:30, and Ben Artwick and Guy Poce. Cortopassi's backland, blind pass to Poce coming from the right front was one of the neatest plays of the game.

Ricci's tally was the winner, but Petaja's two provided the insurance that Escanaba fans wanted against the always-dangerous Pioneers.

The game was marked by plenty of hard checking but penalties were at a minimum. Only the most obvious were called by Referee Jacob Musich, of Calumet. Linesmen Jim Rattray of Gladstone and Ron Nettell of Houghton had authority to call only offside.

Bernie Ruelle was tagged for cross checking in the second period, and Tony Bukovich sat out two minor penalties in the third, once when he tangled with big

Ted Olson and both went to the cooler and again when he charged young Dave Serbinski in the waning moments of the game.

Artwick had 30 stops in all to 27 for Luoto.

Eskys Beat Stalling Stephenson Quint; Meet Menominee Tonight

MENOMINEE—A Stephenson stall worked here for 30 minutes last night but backfired in the last two minutes of play as the Escanaba Eskymos wrested a 3-3-32 district Class B cage win for the right to face the host Menominee Maroons for the title at 8 (CST) tonight.

Coach Bob Noonan's Maroons marched over Gladstone 68-36 to go into the finals.

The Eagles of Coach Walt Schousen came up with a brand new style of play for the tournament, and it was effective for most of four quarters. But when the chips were down the low-geared Stephenson quint found the tables reversed and couldn't come out of a three-point hole in the closing minute.

Slow Style
Stephenson took a 2-0 and 4-0 edge early in the game and then sat back and made the Eskymos do the work. The Stephenson style of play called for slow-moving guards who passed the ball back and forth and waited for a double-pivot to get in the slot.

And the Eagles did it well. They had a 9-5 edge at the end of the first period that looked mighty big. But the Eskymos slowly drew up in the second period, tied it for the first time at 9-9 at the five-minute mark and then held on for a 15-15 knot at halftime.

The Eskymos had a bad third quarter, missing nine of the ten field goal attempts they had. Stephenson hit on five straight field goals and had a 26-21 margin going into the final frame.

With four minutes left Escanaba pulled up to 26-25 and with 2:30 remaining forward Paul Gunderman's field goal made it 30-29. Then Dave Hedin of Stephenson picked up his fifth personal foul against Jim Heiden and the Eskymo guard sank his free throw to knot the score 30-30.

Go Ahead 31-30
A minute later Heiden drew another gift toss and put Escanaba ahead 31-30. Guard Fred Boddy broke an Escanaba semi-stall to drive in for a layup with 32 seconds remaining and Stephenson found itself on the other side of the fence. With only seconds left, guard Ken Hofer raced in for a layup and narrowed the count to the final one-point margin, but the Eskys hung on 'til the final whistle.

Hedin's 12 points was high in the slow game. Boddy led the Eskymos with nine points. The Eskymos made seven out of 10 free throw attempts, declining four. Stephenson hit on only six of 16.

Chicago Golden Glovers Crowned
CHICAGO—Boxing skill, slightly spiced with knockout punch, marks the Chicago Golden Gloves squad that will face the East's best amateurs at New York's Madison Square Garden March 24.

The best eight simon-pure scrappers between the Alleghenies and the Pacific Ocean were determined last night before a capacity Chicago Stadium crowd of 19,422.

Although the heavyweight winner, hulking Ed Sanders of Los Angeles, proved a plodding, unimpressive titlist, the light-heavy class provided a dynamite-fisted winner.

That was Chicago's Eddie Jones, who needed only 39 seconds to flatten Odell Billingsley of Fort Wayne, Ind., in the title round. In the semi-final round, Jones knocked out Charles Semnick of Evansville, Ind., in 1:21 of the third stanza.

The only returning champion, featherweight Kenny Davis, cool-punching marine from Los Angeles, scored the only other knockout of the championship round. Davis felled William Morton of Kansas City in 1:23 of the second round.

The Chicago champions, survivors of approximately 20,000 hopefuls who started the Golden Gloves showdown in cross-roads and hamlets, also included: 112-pounds—Ken Wright, Gary, Ind.; 118 pounds—Richard Cassady, Detroit; 135 pounds—Isaac Vaughn, Cleveland; 147 pounds—Herschel Acton, Los Angeles; 160 pounds—Carl Blair, Great Lakes, Ill.

Eight players who were on the roster of the St. Louis Browns last November will be with other teams this spring. They have added seven names since then.

The second game was the opposite of the first, with both Gladstone and Menominee moving at top speed. The Maroons carried too many guns for Coach Cappy Keil's young Gladstone cagers, however, and had the upper hand throughout.

Menominee substitutes began coming in mid-way in the second period and they held their own most of the way. Menominee led 19-8 at the first quarter and 40-17 at the half. The Maroons had a scoring edge in both of the final two periods.

Forward John Moerchen led both quints with 24 points. Tom Moreau, Gladstone captin, hit 12 for the losers before fouling out in the fourth period.

Dick Hoebreck took an early shower for Menominee, leaving with a minute left in the third quarter. Moerchen fouled out late in the final period and Martin Becker of Gladstone drew his fifth foul early in the fourth.

Manistique, Marquette Win In District, Clash Tonight

MANISTIQUE—The Marquette Gravaerets and Manistique fought through determined opposition to victory in the opening round of the district Class B basketball tournament here last night, and will meet at 8:30 tonight in the district finals.

Marquette knocked off the Sault Blue Devils, 57-53, in the opening clash after the Sault boys uncorked a rally in the second half that scared the Redmen.

Battling against an inspired Newberry five, the Emeralds had difficulty until near the end of the third when they hit a scoring stride that carried them to a 56-37 victory.

The Gravaerets collected a lead of 18-1 in the first stanza and pushed their margin to 29-19 by the end of the half.

Blue Devils Rally

Fighting back savagely the Blue Devils outscored Marquette in the third, 21-16, and were only five points in arrears as the fourth opened with the tally standing at 45-40. About midway of the fourth the Sault pushed within two points of Marquette, but that was as close as they could get. The Gravaerets went into a stall in the final minutes to protect their margin. Again in the final frame the Blue

Soo Tech Posts 87-67 Win; Roe Scores 38

DETROIT—(AP)—With forward Don Roe leading the way with an amazing 38 points, Soo Tech trampled Dearborn Junior College, 87-67, in a runaway basketball game here last night.

Roe connected on 13 shots from the field and 12 free throws to roll up his total.

Lee Foran, with 18 points, was Dearborn's leading scorer.

The half-time score favored Soo Tech, 50-29.

Red Rolfe Is Looking For Speed, Speed, More Speed

LAKELAND, Fla. — (AP) — Speed, speed and more speed. Those are three reasons Manager Red Rolfe is looking for some new blood on the Detroit Tigers.

Red—all ready for the first regular exhibition game today—was pleased by the no-hit pitching Wayne McLeland and Paul Foytack showed against the so-called regulars in yesterday's 0-0 intra-squad game.

But the game, only six innings long, demonstrated what a lot of people already know:

The Tigers, 1950 and 1951 versions, were too slow.

"The Tigers lost the pennant in 1950 because of all those one-run defeats," observed one veteran baseball writer. "Because they were so slow, they lost many potential base runners on double plays. Otherwise they might have won some of those games and a pennant, too."

Seven On Base

Yesterday only seven runners reached base. Two were erased on double plays and one was caught taking too long a lead off first.

Ohio State Leads In Record Breaking Big Ten Swim Meet

EAST LANSING, Mich. — (AP) —Ohio State churned the Western Conference swimming meet into a squad tryout for the Olympics as the Buckeyes surged toward their fourth consecutive team title in the windup of the Big Ten championships here today.

As of today, every final in the two nights of swimming had accounted for a fresh Big Ten record. The brilliant Buckeyes, with 70 points to 32 for second place Michigan State, accounted for six of the seven finals.

Michigan, third with 29 points, was the only school to break the Ohio State monopoly as seven more finals remained for tonight. Other also-rans in the 42nd annual meet were Iowa with 14 points, Northwestern, 10; Purdue, 8; Indiana, 4; Minnesota, 4; Illinois, 3 and Wisconsin with 2 points.

Lone Stranger

The lone stranger among the winners last night was Michigan's John Davies, who won the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:15.3. His time bettered the old conference mark of 2:16.4 by Keith Carter of Purdue in 1948.

Buckeye Coach Mike Peppe, also U. S. Olympic diving coach, collected a bundle of points by placing men 1-2-3 in the two-meter diving. Morley Shapiro, a freshman from San Francisco, was high with 463.55 points.

Ford Konno, who set the pattern for the meet with his record-smashing time in the 1500-meter

Devils outshot the Redmen, 13-12. It dawned on the Emeralds early in the first quarter that Newberry was going to put up a terrific fight. The Indians grabbed a brief 3-2 lead early in the frame and about midway of the quarter managed to knot the count at 8-all. The Emeralds were out in front, 16-10, at quarter's end.

Although Newberry was unable to catch up in the scoring column, Manistique saw its margin whittled to 26-24 at half time, and standing at 32-30 midway of the third.

Pressure Eased

After that the pressure was eased as the Emerald defense tightened and St. John hit the laces for three field goals and Hinkson for one to push Manistique's total at the end of the third to 40. Two field shots by Taylor advanced Newberry's count to 34.

In the fourth the Indians collected only three points, a free toss by Taylor and a field goal by Westman, while the Emeralds ripped the netting for 16.

Continuing a practice started several weeks ago, the Emeralds refused all free shots and took the ball to the side to try for better paying field throws.

to its 18th consecutive win, 61-44 over Bellville. And Allegan made it 19 in a row by taking the class B district title at Plainwell with a 68-39 win over Otsego, with Roger Newman scoring 20 points.

Corbus Hits 29

Class C St. Louis' great center Fred Corbus came up with 29 points to lead his mates to a 58-35 victory over Breckenridge and Vicksburg punched out a 57-40 win over Constantine. It was the 17th for St. Louis and the 18th for Vicksburg.

Nahma, pride of the Upper Peninsula's class E schools, fashioned an 18-0 record with an 81-20 win over Carney.

Class B Ishpeming thrashed Calumet 81-35 to set up one of the state's top district title fights against Negaunee on the enemy floor.

The district champions, joined by about 60 Class A schools, launch a four-day regional tournament next Wednesday with the survivors entering the state quarter-finals March 19.

The 16 teams that emerge from that round move into East Lansing for the semi-finals and champions round in Michigan State College's Jenison Field House.

Adding to their all-victorious strings were Detroit St. Andrew, Romulus and Allegan in class B. St. Louis and Vicksburg in class C. Gwin, Burr Oak and Ellsworth in D and class E Nahma.

Jonesville, a highly-regarded class C outfit, lost its first game in 18 starts, dropping a 50-45 decision to North Adams. Maynard Spotts threw in 20 points in a losing cause.

Though Detroit Visitation held Center Frank Tanana to a low 13 points, St. Andrew looked competent in a 49-37 victory—win number 42. Dick Stellwagon made 21 points to lead Romulus

But John Phillips, speedy sensation getting his first major league tryout, showed everybody what a little footwork can do.

Phillips, the star of the first intra-squad game Thursday, walked in the first inning. The next batter, Pat Mullin, slashed the ball toward first baseman Ben Taylor. Speedster Phillips was already breaking into second and Taylor didn't even try for a double play or a force at second. With most other runners he would have had a chance.

Phillips, pint-sized third-baseman—outfielder, lined a double inside the third base cushion the next time. His was the only extra base-hit the second stringers got. Phillips now has a homer, two doubles, a single and a walk in eight appearances.

Johnny Lipon and Joe Ginsberg got the second-stringers' other two hits.

Foytack was the iron man. He pitched for both teams in the fifth and sixth innings. He gave the second stringers two hits in the fifth inning but went untouched the rest of the time.

grind Thursday night, was the first double winner with his 2:06.7 time in the 220-yard freestyle. Konno clipped nearly two seconds off the old conference mark of 2:08.4 by Ohio State's Bill Smith in 1947.

Michigan State's Clarke Scholes was twice inched out by Dick Cleveland, another Ohio State Hawaiian, in two of the tightest races.

Cleveland beat Scholes "by a finger and clipped a tenth of a second off a Big Ten record with his 2:27.7 time in the 50-yard freestyle.

Wins By Inches

In another fractional finish, Cleveland and Scholes both swam as anchor men in the 400-yard freestyle relay. Cleveland was inches ahead to give Ohio State a time of 3:25.4, bettering the 3:27.5 conference record by a 1951 Ohio State team.

Jack Taylor, the defending champion, and teammate Yoshi Oyakawa finished 1-2 in the 200-yard backstroke. Taylor was clocked in 2:07.2 to better his intercollegiate record of 2:07.3 and his Big Ten record of 2:08.7.

Preliminaries in the three-meter diving, another Ohio State specialty, are scheduled for this morning. Afternoon semi-finals will cut down the field for tonight's finals in the 100-yard backstroke, 100-yard breast-stroke, 100-yard freestyle, 440-yard freestyle, 150-yard individual medley relay, three-meter diving and 300-yard medley relay.

WANTS THIRD BASE

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — Billy Martin has the inside track at the moment for the regular third base job on the New York Yankees.

Manager Casey Stengel said "Martin played third base for me in Oakland. He says he can play third base up here. I want to see whether he can."

RAIN ALREADY

MESA, Ariz. — (AP) — Rain washed out the Chicago Cubs' scheduled exhibition game with the Chicago White Sox at Pasadena, Calif., today but the Cubs immediately came up with another opponent.

The Cleveland Indians arranged to come to the Cubs' Mesa training camp for an exhibition contest.

WANT CLEAR SKYS

PASADENA, Calif. — (AP) — The Chicago White Sox waited today for clear skies and a dry field after heavy rains soaked the Brookside Park training grounds.

It was hoped weather would permit a game with the Chicago

Cubs on Sunday at Los Angeles.

ROOKIE AT 29

TUCSON, Ariz. — (AP) — Bob Kerrigan, a rookie southpaw, may have more at stake than any other member of the Cleveland Indians in the club's exhibition schedule opener today with the New York Giants.

Kerrigan, who didn't get into pro baseball until after the war, is 29, and in his own words "not getting any younger, you know."

Last season he had a 14-8 record with San Diego. And he faces the task of winning a place on one of the best hurling staffs in the majors.

NAMES LINEUP

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Cincinnati will put practice sessions to use today in its first exhibition contest this year against the Boston Red Sox at Sarasota.

Manager Luke Sewell intends to field what may prove to be his regular starting team.

TEST NEW HURLERS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — (AP) — Rookie hurlers will be tested today as the Cardinals meet the New York Yankees in the first exhibition game of the year.

Manager Eddie Stanky, making his debut as a pilot against major league opposition, has named southpaw Fred Hahn and two right-handers, Willard Schmidt and Octavio Rubert.

'GUY WITH GUTS'

BURBANK, Calif. — (AP) — It'll be Hal Hudson on the mound as long as he can last today against the Pittsburgh Pirates, St. Louis Browns' Manager Rogers Hornsby has announced.

Hornsby describes Hudson, who had a 16-5 record in the International league last year, as a "guy with guts."

Training Camp Briefs

BETTER YET

TUCSON, Ariz. — (AP) — New York Giant cleanup hitter Monte Irvin believes he will improve on his .312 batting average of 1951 this season.

"They are not going to get me swinging for the fences any more," he said. "That's what hurt early last year. When I started meeting the ball wherever it was and letting the hits fall wherever they could, I didn't have any more trouble. I don't care whether I never hit another homer."

LIKES ROOKIES

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Brooklyn Dodger Manager Chuck Dressen is highly pleased with the newcomers on his pitching staff.

"We are much stronger in pitchers than a year ago," Chuck said. "Fellows like Ben Wade, John Podres, Billy Loes, Bob Alexander, John Rutherford and Joe Black are better looking than any new men we asked to camp last year."

Greece Agrees On U. S. Officer

ATHENS, Greece—(P)—Greek sources reported Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has agreed that only an American officer will command Greek armies assigned to North Atlantic Treaty forces.

This tentative agreement was reported after the NATO supreme commander conferred at length with Lt. Gen. Theodore Grigoropoulos, chief of the Greek national defense staff. Eisenhower arrived Wednesday for conferences with Greek leaders after two days of talks in Turkey. Turkey and Greece are new members of NATO.

General Eisenhower is scheduled to fly to Rome for a two-hour conference with Italian generals who had insisted that Lt. Gen. Mario Castiglione, allied land force commander in NATO's southern command, should command all land forces in the area regardless of nationality.

The Greeks insisted it would be embarrassing to submit Greek troops to the command of an Italian general because they defeated the Italian invasion attempt in the last war.

This ticklish command question was debated at last month's NATO council meeting in Lisbon. The council decided to leave all the details of fitting Greek and Turkish forces into NATO up to Eisenhower.

Speakers for Eisenhower concentrated on presenting the general as a staunch Republican, a prospective fighting nominee, a towering opponent of Communism and as a sure election winner.

American Warplanes Accused Of Spreading Germs In Manchuria

TOKYO—(P)—Chou En-Lai, premier and foreign minister of Communist China, today charged that U. S. warplanes had spread germs over Manchuria.

In what Peiping radio said was an official protest, Chou declared the pilots should be punished. Peiping did not say, however, to whom the protest was addressed.

This was the latest in a long series of Communist propaganda broadcasts charging the United States with conducting "germ warfare" in the Korean conflict. The U. S. has branded the charges absurd.

About two weeks ago Chou made a formal "protest," saying the United States was spreading germs in North Korea, where it is believed epidemics are raging.

In today's "protest," Chou said 448 U. S. planes spread germs between Feb. 25 and March 5 over a number of Manchurian border towns and the coal mining center of Fushun.

Six Americans Picked For Nobel Peace Prize Nominations This Year

OSLO, Norway—(P)—The Nobel committee announced that 27 individuals, including six Americans, have been nominated for the 1952 Nobel Peace Prize.

The Americans: Frank Buchman, noted for his work with the Oxford Group and Moral Re-Armament; Ewing Cockrell, Warrensburg, Mo., jurist now living in Washington, D. C.; Raphael Lemkin, Yale University, an authority on international law and the man who coined the word genocide for race murder; James Shotwell, historian and former president of the Carnegie Endowment for international Peace, Clarence Streit, advocate of American union with Great Britain and Giuseppe A. Borgese, Chicago, author and university professor who left Italy in 1931 rather than take an oath of allegiance to Fascism. He became a U. S. citizen in 1938.

Plan To Reshuffle U. S. Revenue Bureau Opposed In Senate

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON—(P)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) predicted today Senate opponents of President Truman's plan to reorganize the tax-collecting service will muster the necessary 49 votes to kill it.

He said in an interview the President's letter sent to the capitol yesterday in support of the plan was a "brazen effort to divert attention from conditions of graft" in the administration.

Other Senators opposed to the plan to reshuffle the scandal-plagued Internal Revenue Bureau were not so certain it could be defeated. One privately told a reporter it would be possible to muster 51 votes against it if all 51 members opposed turned up when the showdown comes next week.

But this same source pointed out

Shift Of Captives Into Manchuria Denied By Reds

United Nations Command last December.

Several times previously the U. N. has accused the Communists of holding Allied prisoners outside Korea. This was the first time, however, Libby has confronted them with details and the specified location of at least one prison camp.

Tells of Tattooing

General Lee came back with a tirade against what he called "infamous instructors" from Formosa in U. N. prison camps.

He charged that the instructors are "again fomenting hunger strikes and desperate petitions" among prisoners held by the United Nations.

Lee declared the Chinese Nationalists "are tattooing our captured personnel. After the anti-Communist slogan is tattooed on their bodies, it would be easier to intimidate them."

"Let me tell you frankly," he continued, "that if such lawless activities are not stopped immediately, their development will go beyond the scope of the Korean question."

It was this statement Libby branded as a threat to the U. N. Command. There was no immediate explanation of Lee's remarks. Libby did not answer Lee's blast on "instructors" from Formosa. Unofficial sources here said there are about 100 Nationalist Chinese in U. N. prison camps. Allied officers said they believed their principal job was to act as Chinese interpreters and translators.

it almost never was possible to get all Senators in attendance and that every absentee in effect was a vote for the plan.

The law governing reorganization measures requires a majority of the full membership, or 49 votes, to reject a presidential proposal.

Truman's letter sent to Vice President Alben Barkley yesterday and read to the Senate was so sharp in tone that it aroused the ire of Senators opposing the plan.

Next week's vote, the President said, "will show who it is that is just talking about corruption and who it is that really wants to do something about it."

Letter "Insulting"

Truman noted that five of the six Republican Senators on the government operations group voted against the reorganization measure.

"These five Senators—like many of their Republican colleagues—have made a great cry about cleaning up any graft and corruption in government," he said, adding:

"I think it is fair to ask whether they really want to do something to assure clean, efficient government or whether all their talk is pure politics."

One of the five GOP Senators referred to was Mundt. Another was Sen. Nixon (R-Calif.) who told a reporter the letter was "so insulting it was likely to have the opposite effect from the one intended."

Earthquake Repeats In Northern Japan

TOKYO—(P)—Kushiro, Hokkaido, hardest hit by last Tuesday's big earthquake, was shaken sharply again Friday night, Kyodo news agency reported.

The shock was of intensity three on a scale of eight and lasted 40 seconds.

There were no immediate reports of casualties. The toll in Friday's earthquake in western Honshu stood at two dead and four seriously injured.

The fatalities occurred at Kanazawa, about 200 miles northwest of Tokyo. Kanazawa was the hardest hit.

Nine houses were demolished or burned down and 3,696 others were damaged.

Far to the north, workers still were clearing up debris from Tuesday's much stronger quake on northern Honshu and Hokkaido. That quake killed 27 Japanese and left about 13,000 homeless.

Copper Wire Theft Ring Believed Broken

SANDUSKY, Mich.—(P)—State Police held three men in connection with a $25,000 series of thefts of copper wire from utility firms.

A flat tire on their truck led to the men's undoing, the police said.

Sgt. Murrell Clark, commander of the State Police Post here, said the arrests broke up a ring of thieves who dealt in critical materials.

The trio were seized when their truck was stalled with a flat and a quantity of copper wire was found in the vehicle.

Robert T. Hastings, 33, of Lake Orion, and Charles W. Lawther, 25, of Pontiac, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to grand larceny charges. Albert J. Bailey, 27, of Pontiac, implicated by the other two, also is held.

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(P)—How about swinging in a basket at the end of a 70-foot cable under an airplane while suffering from acute appendicitis?

A San Diego tug boat engineer, Cecil Davidson, 47, did Thursday.

He swung in a basket while being raised from the tug Challenger, at sea 35 miles northwest of here, to a U. S. Coast Guard helicopter.

The "copter had to stay high so its rotors would clear the tug's 50-foot high radio antenna.

"I guess he felt like he was on the end of an endless pendulum," said Lt. Ray Miller, helicopter pilot.

Davidson was brought to a hospital here. His appendix was taken out and he was reported in good shape.

Noted Mathematician Sober, Looks Drunk

BIRMINGHAM, Eng.—(P)—Judge and jury inspected the noted mathematician, Lancelot Hogben, in a witness box and agreed he looks drunk when he's cold sober.

Hogben's old friend, Philip Cloake, a neurology professor at Birmingham University, also testified Hogben "was likely to be mistaken for a drunken man" when he was quite sober.

So magistrate Paul Sandlands yesterday dismissed a drunken driving charge growing from Hogben's arrest after he backed his car into two other cars.

Hogben, 56, is professor of medical statistics at Birmingham University. He wrote "mathematics for the millions," a best-selling book explaining the complexities of mathematics.

situation," he said, in the "jockeying and tugging" for tax money between townships, counties, rural areas and between all local units against the state.

He cited these findings: —Taxpayers in some localities carry the load for other communities through inequities in both levying and distribution of taxes. Failure to distribute state grants on a basis of need results in financial surpluses in some municipalities and deficits in others.

—One half of the state's 1,475 township governments levy no real estate taxes whatever but are financed through distribution of the state sales tax, which comes largely from collections in urban areas.

—Townships without police departments share in the distribution of liquor license funds although they have no way of enforcing liquor laws.

Sidwell also said a prime need is a uniform method of establishing assessed valuations which at present vary widely.

Winty weather continued over much of the northern part of the country today east of the Rockies. Some cool weather also hit the far southwest.

It was below zero in parts of Michigan early today, with 15 below at Pellston; -11 at Grand Marais and -10 at Cadillac. It was -6 at Butte, Mont.

Snow fell over wide areas of the Midwest, with falls from Minnesota and the eastern Dakotas southward into Iowa and eastward into Wisconsin and western Illinois. The snow was mixed with freezing drizzle in some areas. Snow flurries also continued in the eastern Great Lakes region and the Appalachians.

Arms Made In U. S.

The Russian and Chinese Communist governments have accused the United States of helping supply and reinforce them with troops flown from Formosa, and have charged that an act of aggression against Communist China was being readied in southeast Asia. Burma fears the situation will lead to trouble with Red China.

An informant claiming to be familiar with the situation on the Burma side of the border said recently he had seen brand new, American-made arms in the hands of Chinese there. Another informant recently returned from the area said the Chinese recently had built a new airfield under the supervision of American engineers. Repeated denials that aid is being given the Nationalist Chinese in Burma have been made by the American and Thailand governments.
